Early travelers seeking a direct route to California faced a daunting challenge: a seventy-mile trek through a dry and salty region 19th Century cartographers labeled "The Great American Desert". From Jedediah Smith's legendary walk across the Great Basin, to the Donner-Reed Party's ill-advised attempt to carve a shortcut south of the Great Salt Lake, to the establishment of the Pony Express

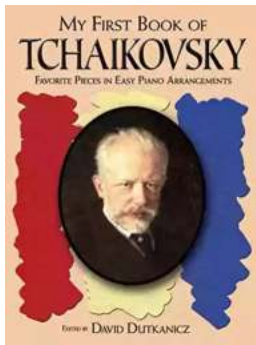

Route, and more, the roads and trails crisscrossing western Tooele County find their origins in a surprisingly rich collection of historical tales.

Today, two popular herds of wild horses still roam this forbidding region, beckoning sightseers and photographers along these same storied trails. Robert Hammer brings the history and the horses together in this entertaining and informative book, guiding the reader through nearly-forgotten times and uninhabitable spaces in search of those living icons of our national heritage, the mustangs of the American West.
