As she navigates through Fairyland, September encounters mystical creatures, such as the Wyverary (a half-library, half-wyvern), a soap golem named Saturday, and the Marquess, the notorious ruler of Fairyland who is both charming and deceptive. September must use her wit, bravery, and her trusty ship built from her own imagination to complete her quest and restore harmony to Fairyland.

An Imaginative and Captivating World

Valente's writing effortlessly transports readers to a world where magic permeates every nook and cranny. Fairyland is depicted with rich descriptions that appeal to all senses. From the bustling markets filled with strange and exotic goods to the dark corners where dangerous creatures lurk, every moment is vividly brought to life.

The author's imaginative storytelling and attention to detail make it easy for readers to visualize and immerse themselves in Fairyland. Valente weaves a tapestry of words that paints a truly enchanting world filled with wonder and awe.

Themes of Courage, Friendship, and Self-discovery

At its core, "The Girl Who Circumnavigated Fairyland In Ship Of Her Own Making" is a tale of self-discovery, friendship, and the power of imagination. Through September's journey, readers are reminded of the importance of courage and believing in oneself.

September's interactions with various characters also highlight the value of empathy and compassion. From A-Through-L, a Wyverary with a love for books, to Saturday, the golem made entirely of soap, each character teaches September valuable life lessons and helps her grow as an individual.

A Book That Appeals to All Ages

While "The Girl Who Circumnavigated Fairyland In Ship Of Her Own Making" is primarily categorised as a children's book, its themes and lyrical language resonate with readers of all ages. Adults are sure to find themselves captivated by the whimsical world and the emotional depth conveyed through Valente's writing.

The book's exploration of complex themes and its ability to evoke a sense of childlike wonder make it a delightful read for both young and mature audiences alike.

In "The Girl Who Circumnavigated Fairyland In Ship Of Her Own Making," Catherynne M. Valente delivers a captivating and immersive story that will transport readers to a world filled with magic, adventure, and self-discovery. "One of the most extraordinary works of fantasy, for adults or children, published so far this century."—Time magazine, on the Fairyland series

Twelve-year-old September lives in Omaha, and used to have an ordinary life, until her father went to war and her mother went to work. One day, September is met at her kitchen window by a Green Wind (taking the form of a gentleman in a green jacket), who invites her on an adventure, implying that her help is needed in Fairyland. The new Marquess is unpredictable and fickle, and also not much older than September. Only September can retrieve a talisman the Marquess wants from the enchanted woods, and if she doesn't . . . then the Marquess will make life impossible for the inhabitants of Fairyland. September is already making new friends, including a book-loving Wyvern and a mysterious boy named Saturday.

With exquisite illustrations by acclaimed artist Ana Juan, Fairyland lives up to the sensation it created when author Catherynne M. Valente first posted it online. For readers of all ages who love the charm of Alice in Wonderland and the soul of The Golden Compass, here is a reading experience unto itself: unforgettable, and so very beautiful.

The Girl Who Circumnavigated Fairyland in a Ship of Her Own Making is a Publishers Weekly Best Children's Fiction title for 2011.
