The Missing Ones is the true account of the disappearance of Blanche and Russell Warren. The young hard working couple disappeared in 1929, seemingly without a trace while drive from Port Angeles to their cabin near Forks, Washington. At the cabin eagerly awaiting their arrival, were their two young sons, age 12 and 14. An investigation by the Sheriff's Department failed to find the Warrens. However, clues led investigators to the belief that the Warren's had driven into Lake Crescent. The case was largely forgotten until 1954 when a scuba diving club stumbled upon the story. In 2001, they passed the story on to National Park Rangers and divers stationed at Olympic National Park. This is the true story of how the Warrens disappeared, the 1929 investigation, how the dive club found the story in 1954 and what they did to try to solve the case and how the Park Rangers and dive team finally solved the case in 2004.
